Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

A great many commentators have decided that the Allies have already won the war, though Germany may be sometime surrendering. Bit by bit Germany's merchant marine and naval vessels are being captured or sunk and the belt tightening process among the German people that Hitler began as a preparedness measure is now beginning to pinch in actual war. However, no one yet can say that Hitler is through. There are several desperate expedients he may try before yelling "kamerade." To seize food stuffs and war materials he may invade Scandinavia, via Denmark, or Holland and Belgium, or third, the Balkan states. The last we deem unlikely since it seems very probable that he would then have Russia to fight in the east.

But we doubt, however desperate his straits, that Hitler will invade neutral nations. It is already a bit late in the day to help his case. The neutrals have been busily preparing to resist Hitler since he invaded Poland. If the Germans invaded any of these countries they would find them hard nuts to crack. It would mean a long extension of the fighting front, and prodigal expenditure of munitions and war transport. In the end he would have added new armies to the Allies powerful forces, for very doubtful advantages. World moral factors both Hitler and Stalin ignore as of no practical account. Still with a mad-man at the helm, no one can say which direction the ship will sail.

Thus conceding the war already won, with land fighting a stalemate and sea fighting giving every evidence of British and French superiority, commentators are busily speculating on the peace to follow the war. In this connection the most notable and, probably the most idealistic, contribution, is that of Clarence Streit. He suggests in his book, "Union Now", a Federal Union of all democracies, who would guarantee to their citizens a minimum, and elementary bill of rights. Each country in becoming a member of this Federal Union woud surrender as much of its sovereignty as was necessary to practical workability. The Union for instance would take over coinage and exchange, foreign affairs as relating to the world outside the union, and tariff barriers between members of the union would be, to all practical purposes, abolished. The Federal Union would also maintain a military establishment, consisting undoubtely of the combined armies and navies of the members, for common defense.

The internal affairs of each democracy would be strictly its own business, so long as its citizens enjoyed all rights guaranteed in the bill of rights. When those were modified or abolished by law, expulsion from the union would be the only penalty; this on the theory that any nation which destroys civil liberty, automatically ceases to be a democracy.

Offhand, it would seem as if this plan were far more likely to work than the League of Nations. Suppose for instance such a union of democracies had been in existence when Hitler came to power. Poland, Austria, Czech-Slovakia, and even Germany at that time would have been members. When Hitler put into practice his peculiar doctrine of human vassalage inherent in state socialism, Germany, would, of course, have ceased to be a member of the union. But would Hitler have launched his drive for conquest among the other three, if back of them stood a Federal Union. comprising all the countries of the New World, Scandanavia, Holland, Belgium, one or two of the Balkan states, and last, France and England? We doubt it.

Since the world war we observe, no single nation can guarantee its own peace. Group action is the only recourse. Since the world dearly yearns for peace, somewhere, somehow, a beginning must be made. Perhaps Streit's book offers a way. The difficulty, of course, is that no nation wishes to surrender any of its sovereignty. Yet the failure of the League of Nations indicates that unless by common consent this is done among the more enlightened nations, we shall find no barriers erected against war. Instead the world will witness a subsidence, gradual but definite, into a kind of scientific barbarism, from which it may not emerge for centuries.

CROSSCUT IN MURCHIE MINE NOW IN 1750 FT.

The tunnel, being driven from the 400 foot level in the Murchie mine to the North Banner property, also owned by the Newmont interests, is in over 1750 feet. The four automatic liners working three shifts average 20 feet per day in drifting, or an average of 500 feet per month. The tunnel will be about 6000 feet long when completed.

AUTO LICENSE RENEWAL FROM JAN. 2 TO FEB. 4

For California's millions of car owners, securing new license plates for 1940 will loom as one of earliest important items of business with the start of the new year.

The period fixed by law for annual renewal of automobile registration will open Tuesday, January 2, and continue to February 4.

Postcard notices telling the amount of fees required to obtain new plates for each car are being mailed out this week by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

The charges consist of the regular registration fee of $3 and the vehicle license fee, or in lieu tax replacing the former personal property tax, at the rate of $1.75 for each $100 of car valuation.

Plates will be issued by the department at its various offices and by the California State Automobile Association to member motorists at district offices throughout northern and central California.

Application for renewal requires presentation of the 1939 certificate of registration and the postcard notice also should be presented to facilitate the procedure.

Under a new ruling of the Department no plate issuing office will be permitted to give out plates except in consecutive order from each box. In other words, applicants will no longer be able to obtain certain requested numbers as they have been able to do in the past.

Failure to apply for renewal within the designated period will incur penalties, consisting of a doubled registration fee and a 50 per cent increase in the amount of vehicle license fee.

MRS. PHOEBE MC KENZIE SUMMONED BY DEATH

Mrs. Phoebe McKenzie, aged 85 years, died at the home of Mrs. Ernest Carnes Wednesday morning from infirmities of old age. She was one of the oldest natives of Nevada City and resided for many years with her late husband on a ranch west of Nevada City. She moved with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Craig, to San Francisco and spent a great deal of her younger life there. A brother, the late L. D. Craig was a noted San Francisco attorney. Surviving her are three nieces, and a nephew, Mrs. Mary Gray, Esparto; Mrs. Cassie Griffin, Winters; Miss Elsie Craig, Berkeley and John Craig, Nevada City. The remains are at Holmes Funeral Home and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder little New Year Nineteen Forty,
Why you stand and stare accusingly at me;
I'm not to blame for all the wild disorder
Which you have come upon so suddenly.
There's really nothing I can do about it—
My voice could never rise above the din,
Why should I turn from peaceful paths and pleasant,
To help you stem the tides of pain and sin?

I wonder if the attitude of aloofness and non-intervention which many of us assume toward events taking place in the world about us, is the correct one.

As nineteen Forty mounts his throne and surveys the topsy-turvy realm over which he now holds sway, you may be saying, "yes, the affairs of this old world are sadly muddled—many things need fixing, but what can one mere individual do about it?"

Now, that is exactly what the New Year wishes to find out, and, being a product of all the ages past, he does not under estimate the value of individual effort. "Mere individuals" have left many luminous foot prints upon the sands of time; some of them enjoyed the advantages of wealth and position, but a greater number came from homes of poverty and obscurity—but they all left shining marks.

In this day of universal bewilderment, some one must solve the problems which seem to elude the minds now trained upon them; some one must formulate plans for restoring peace and decency, some one must put thoughts into words that will sway the multitude, crystalize public sentiment and lead the way to a far, far better order of society than this in which we now live. It may be your task to at least lend aid to these desirable tasks—why not?

The New Year comes to find the western hemisphere at peace with all the world; but the sorrows of other lands and other peoples cast grim shadows over our accustomed festivities. However, it is not well to yield to the emotions of anxiety and regret; rather should we look away to the time which is surely coming when hate and greed and strife, having run their evil course, humanity will be ready for the tasks of restoration and reconstruction and for the inauguration of a better way of life founded upon the basic principles of truth and justice, co-operation, harmony and good will.

A Happy New Year to All.

XMAS FESTIVAL FOR CHILDREN OF TRINITY TONIGHT

Trinity church holds its annual Christmas festival this evening at 8 p. m. Children will receive gifts from their church. The parents are expected to attend with their children. There will be a 35 minute service with address and music. The vested choir will be directed by Mrs. Libbey, while Mrs. Grace Raymond will be at the organ. Special music will be rendered by some of the young people.

The text of the rector's short address is taken from the sixth chapter of St. Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians. "Children Obey your parents in the Lord—and, ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath, but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord."

Following the 35 minute service, the children will give a few select numbers in verse and in music. Our youngest children taking part in the church school program will be four years of age.

All the people in the community are invited to attend this festival for the children of Trinity church school. This is an opportunity to meet the teaching staff of Trinity parish.

H. THOMAS PATEMAN, Rector.

Carlos Casmore, who is stationed at the Presidio, San Francisco, spent the Christmas holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weege. The group spent Christmas day in Loomis with friends and Casmore returned to his duties Tuesday.

Judge George L. Jones, past grand master of the Grand Lodge of Masons of the State of California, presided at a joint installation of three lodges in the Masonic Temple in Sacramento Wednesday evening.

MAIL DELIVERY SERVICE WILL BE ANNOUNCED SOON

Postmaster, Betty Martin West, reports that although the survey made by actual count, on December 15, of acceptable mail receptacles, did not meet with the required 85 per cent established boxes, consideration has been given the public due to their being unable to procure receptacles from the merchants. Shipments were delayed and on the afternoon of December 15, there was not a box for available sale in town.

Mrs. West reports that the streets not meeting with requirements are East and West Broad streets, Nile street as well as Grove street. It was not known on this date wether patrons in these areas were intending to continue lobby box service but Mrs. West advises people living on these streets who desire city delivery and who live within the city limits, to at once erect boxes and number their houses that complete delivery may be made.

Advice from the post office department is to the effect that the equipment necessary to carrier service has been shipped to the Nevada City office and upon its arrival a definite date for city delivery establishment will be announced.

The public is again reminded that this new service is confined to city limits with the exclusion of a few restricted areas due to lack of required 50 per cent block improvements. The filing of change of address card with a postal clerk will determine this matter for the patron. Persons desiring continuance of the lobby box service may of course continue to retain their lobby boxes but under no circumstances may a patron be served through more than one avenue of delivery.

Englebright Says Big Battle Impends On Spending Program

Congressman Harry L. Englebright and family are leaving this morning for Washington D. C. He wishes to be on ground a day or two before Congress opens. He predicts the big battle in Congress this year will be over the President's demand for huge expenditures for national defense.

He thinks the President will ask less for relief but will shift his spending program to more ships for the navy, more airplanes, more military flying fields etc. When the present program is completed, many congressmen believe that so far as defense is concerned, the United States, will be equipped on land, sea and in the air, to resists any group of powers that might attack us. So Congressman Englebright declares, the Congressional committees will closely scrutinize every item of the President's military expansion program.

"As a matter of fact", said Mr. Englebright, "the experts of the army and navy never desire to overbuild. Suppose, for instance, we were to approve the expenditure of millions of dollars for thousands of planes. By the time the program was completed, the planes would probably be obsolete. What the navy and army desire is an elastic program of construction, under which they can obtain an adequate number of both war ships and air ships in the least possible time.

"It is not likely that the President will be able to persuade the navel and army experts to expand large sums for equipment which will be outmoded by the time it is built. The country, of course, is sympathetic to an adequate defense program, but a good many would like to wait and see how we compare with other nations when the program started this year is nearing completion. There is some sentiment, I know, favoring a somewhat skeletonized fleet in the Atlantic, so that protection may be offered on both coasts, should anything happen to the Panama canal.

"Putting in a new set of locks in canal was really more to accommodate commercial vessels than war vessels. The stoppage of trade through the canal would have far reaching effects.

"But so far as the spending program is concerned there is a disposition on the part of the majority in Congress to scrutinize every item and prune wherever possible. For instance, there is a good deal of waste in overlapping functions that can be cut down. The committee now investigating relief expenditures is doing a very valuable work and I believe Congress will be guided largely by the committee's findings and revelations.

"There will undoubtedly be an attempt to raise the debt limit above the 45 billion that congress fixed, but I am inclined to think the President will seek to raise additional taxes to pay the bill for national defense by making a great patriotic appeal to the people themselves.

There is also a probability that amendments may be offered to the Neutrality act, in order to legalize what the President calls moral embargoes against those nations which invade and destroy their neighbors. On the other hand there is a one hundred percent determination in Congress that this country shall not be dragged into other nations' wars."

Congressman Englebright returned four or five days ago from hearings held in San Francisco and later in Portland by the Joint Committee on Forests. He stated that several important matters were considered by the committee at these hearings. They found an almost universal demand that the 25 percent of the proceeds from Federal administration which is turned back to the states, shall not be earmarked for schools, roads etc. but shall be handed to the state and apportioned among the counties to do with as their boards of supervisors think best. The money received by the state is in lieu of taxes which the counties lose as a result of Federal ownership. A certain percentage of the money is now earmarked for schools, and a part of it for roads etc. Witnesses at the hearings were practically unanimous that while this procedure kept taxes down in the big cities, it really injured the counties in which the forests lay, because, whether or no, they must spend certain proportions in prescribed channels, when as a matter of fact they might, in some years need all the money for new schools or for road improvement. The revenue from the U. S. Forests originates mainly in sales of stumpage and grazing permits.

Another twenty days without heavy rains, Mr. Englebright states, and the dam at the Yuba Narrows will be sufficiently far along, so that the contractors will be able to continue work all winter. Cement pouring in the bed of the stream began only a few days ago and rapid progress is being made. The stream is now being side-tracked through an immense cement flume, but heavy storms would overflow it and the cement work now being done would have to be postponed until the water became lower.

Maskers Will Dance Tomorrow Night At Annual Firemen Ball

After weeks of preparation, final arrangements for the 34th annual Firemen's Masquerade Ball have been completed and, officials believe it will be the greatest ever held. The affair will be held in Armory Hall, tomorrow night.

For 33 years the firemen have been giving the gala celebration, and for 33 years it has been the outstanding event of this community's social calendar. With committees working night and day on decorations, music and entertainment, it is expected that the masquerade this year will eclipse them all. The advance sale of tickets has been heavy and a packed house is insured.

The proceeds of the dance will be placed into the Houston Equipment Fund, which is used exclusively for the purchase of fire fighting equipment.

Tickets for the dance are on sale in various business houses and by the firemen themselves. They can also be purchased at the door. Price of admission is one dollar.

Many beautiful prizes have been obtained as rewards for the best maskers.

Lou Kopp, chairman of the music committee, announces that he has obtained the services of the popular Mid Russell club orchestra. This organization is a radio favorite in the valley towns and has been acclaimed by dancers from Nevada City, North San Juan and other mountain communities.

Max Solaro and his aides have completed the decorations of the hall with masses of greenery, vari-colored lights and colored streamers.

Fire Chief Herb Hallett is general chairman.

Happy New Year!

America, alone among the great nations of the world, has reason to greet the birth of 1940 with greater confidence and cheer than scarred, dying old 1939 received when he began a life that was to be troublous and world shaking. The priceless boon of peace is ours—but also, with the habit of "muddling through" experimentally which we seem to have in common with our lineal cousins of England, we've cleared the air of much fog of national uncertainty. The error of permitting government to regiment and restrict business and run it into the ground, is far more widely recognized than few years ago. The sound old theory that the shoemaker should stick to his last—that politicians are no more competent to operate business than an actor is competent to remove an appendix or a surgeon is competent to play Hamlet—has regained respect. Then, too, as recent elections in this and other states have proved, Americans are weary of the various crack-pot schemes to cure economic and social ills.

Generally is evidenced new awareness that this nation must work its way out—not dream its way out; must pay bills in earned dollars and not in treasury reficits and governmental I. O. U's. And California leads the nation in sound reasons for looking to 1940 as a Prosperous and Happy New Year. This state has kept pace with industrial advancement, and marches into 1940 as the white spot of the nation. We've had a great World Fair and a record tourist year, with every prospect for an accelerated forward march through the twelve-month ahead. So well may the U. S. A.. with California's voice the heartiest, make the welkin ring with:

Happy New Year!—Contributed.

LITTLE MAN WHAT NOW?

ROTARY HEARS ACCOUNT OF HOW HOLIDAYS BEGAN

The Rev. H. Thomas Pateman, rector of Trinity Episcopal church entertained the Rotary club at luncheon yesterday with an account of the origin of Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year holidays and of some of the superstitions and customs associated with them from remote antiquity, until, and even including, modern times.

The Romans of the pre-Christian era celebrated a feast to the sun. Other nations and races also had days set aside to honor special gods, some of which fell upon date of the Nativity. The first observance of the anniversary of the birth of Christ of which there is a record, occurred in Rome in the fourth century.

So far as Thanksgiving is concerned that is of probably even older origin than the New Year and Christmas origins. In many nations and among many races, since human events were recorded the conclusion of the harvest season has been observed by feasting, drinking and the dancing, often accompanied by religious observances. The holiday broke the routine of every day work and long before Christianity was born, people celebrated in one way or another the bounty of the good earth.

THEFT OF HAY FOLLOWED BY CALF KILLING

Yesterday Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen and Game Warden Earl Hiscox went to the Buck Cole ranch in the Buena Vista district near Rough and Ready to investigate the killing of a calf. At a late hour last evening they had not returned. Thieves allegedly stole 60 bales of hay from the Cole ranch recently and the hay was identified by the cattleman.

Mrs. Harold Deeter has just received a message that her mother, Mrs. H. D. Griffiths, has left the General Hospital in Vancouver, for an apartment at the Georgia Hotel. She was able to leave the hospital beofre Christmas and is feeling very much improved in health. Mr. and Mrs. Griffiths came from London, England, last summer and spent some time visiting their daughter and husband. While here Mrs. Griffiths became ill and it is good news to the many friends of the family that she is recovering.

Miss Naomi Lathrop of Sacramento and Miss M. Harrison of Stockton are holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Deeter at the "Ark" in Glenwood.

Allen Widauf, who is studying aeronautics in Los Angeles was home for the Christmas holidays and week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Widauf.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Sofge of Willow Valley spent Christmas day in Sacramento with their son, Harold Sofge. Mr. Sofge is secretary of the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce.

ALL WORLD WAR PENSIONS WILL BE PAID BY 2079

An English publication, "John O'London's Weekly," throws new light on the cost of war to the American taxpayer. It reports:

"An Englishman with a sense of humor can have an amusing time in those United States just by keeping his eyes open and talking to strangers. Mr. George Digby, for instance, motored across America with his wife. Mr. Digby made a discovery concerning U. S. war pensions, payable to the widows of pensioners even when marriages are contracted two generations after the pensioner's service has ended; they are still being paid to widows of men who served in the 1812 war!

"A girl of seventeen who married one of these war veterans of ninety-five in 1890 would be only sixty five today, with many more years of pensioned widowhood probably ahead of her. Any of these widows who become centenarians will still be drawing pension in 1973.

"On this basis, Mr. Digby adds, it will be A. D. 2079 before the last pension check payable in respect to the 1914-18 war is endorsed by its last widow, who will not be born for another fifty seven years!"

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Foreman had as Christmsa dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. John McQuay, Mr. and Mrs. Blodgett and daughter, of this city; Miss Graham, Oakland; Mrs. Gregory Allen, Victoria, B. C.

Miss Helen Jones, librarian in the Fremont high school in Sunnyvale and Miss Nancy Jones, teacher in the Marysville high school, are home with their parents, Judge and Mrs. George L. Jones for the holidays.

Warren Vanberg of Los Angeles spent the Christmas holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Vanberg on Grove street.

Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Ivey had as Christmas guests their niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Smith of Vallejo.

Anton and Albert Buck of Orleans Flat went to their ranch near Lincoln for the Christmas holidays.

PERSONAL

Mrs. Clara Scarfe of Boulder street had as week end holiday guests her daughter Mrs. Hildegaarde Hadley of Eureka; Gordon Hadley, publisher of the Arcata newspaper, and wife, dean of women in the Arcata State Teachers college; Channing Hadley, manager of a music store in Santa Cruz and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Muscardini and Mrs. Anna Tucker and son, Bob, entertained the following over the Christmas holidays, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Ronchi, Folsom; Miss Emma Muscardini and J. Frederickson, Sacramento; John Muscardini, University of California.

Halstead Downey, who has been a reserve in the U. S. Navy for several years, was called back into service about two months ago. He was at San Pedro for a time and is now stationed at Vallejo. He came up from Vallejo Friday and is visiting with his mother, Mrs. George Downey and other family members. Downey is on a naval destroyer as chief gunner's mate.

Mrs. Fred Garrison is Guest of Honor

Mrs. Joe Young entertained Friday evening honoring Mrs. Fred Garrison with a party and handkerchief shower. Mrs. Garrison is the wife of Superintendent Garrison of the State Division of Highways and he has been transferred into the Woodland district which also comprises Sacramento and large nearby territory.

Four tables of Dutch whist were enjoyed with prizes going to Mrs. Ed LaTour, first; Mrs. S. Hieronimus, second and Mrs. R. Foster, third.

Sixteen enjoyed a delicious luncheon at the close of the evening.

It is expected Mr. and Mrs. Garrison will leave for their new home about the middle of January. They have resided here seven years and made many friends who will regret their leaving.

John Ghidotti, Jr., who underwent an operation in a Sacramento hospital, was moved to the home of his parents on Prospect Hill recently. He is making a good recovery.

Mrs. Mamie Phelan who has been visiting relatives in Los Angeles for several months came to Grass Valley and is enjoying the holidays with relatives. She spent some time with her sister, Mrs. O'Connor, who is in charge of the woman's division of the county hospital.

ALBERT RONDONI DIES IN ACCIDENT

Holmes Funeral Home late yesterday afternoon received a telegram to go to Turlock and return to Grass Valley with the body of Albert Rondoni, who was killed in an auto accident during the day. Rondoni, a native of Montezuma Hill northern Nevada county, was killed in an auto accident when returning from spending Christmas with relatives in Los Angeles.

He was for years employed in Nevada and Amador county mines. He leaves a brother, Jack Rondoni and other relatives in this city and Grass Valley. Funeral services will probably be held in Grass Valley.

Roger, Ben and Murray Pryor of Maxwell and Colusa spent Christmas day in Nevada City with their sister and brother in law, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Martine.

Paul Phariss, fireman second class in the United States navy, spent the past week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Phariss of Nevada City.

Miss Catherine Tognarelli, Dominican Convent student, and Miss Betsy Bennett, who is attending Dominican College, are enjoying the holidays in Nevada City with their parents.

Miss Dorothy Jones of Vallejo is spending the holidays in Nevada City visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jackson, Jr., and other friends.

Miss Florence Meservey of Oakland came up for the Christmas holidays with her mother, Mrs. W. E. Meservey, sister, Miss Mamie Meservey and other family members. She returned home Thursday.

NEW NEVADA CITY SKI COURSE WINS QUICK SUPPORT

There was a well attended meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last evening at which the proposal to establish a new Nevada City ski course fifteen miles above this city on the Tahoe Ukiah highway was discussed.

As a start toward establishing this new winter recreation ground it was decided to raise enough money this year through contributions of business men to build four toilets. The Nevada City Chamber volunteered to contribute part of the cost. The plan of building a ski lodge at the course was also discussed but it was believed that this should wait until necessary first improvements are made.

DeWitt Nelson, supervisor of the Tahoe National Forest, gave an account of the work already done by the forest service in making this one of the safest and most attractive ski courses in this part of the Sierras. The course has been cleared of all obstacles and topographically lies in such a manner that skiers can almost return to their starting place under their own power. Supervisor Nelson stated that approximately $3,000 mainly for labor has been expended in clearing the course. He said that in so far as labor was concerned the forest service would aid in setting up the proposed lavatories, but that materials would have to be provided.

Secretary H. F. Sofge, of the chamber, pointed out that other communities are spending thousands of dollars for ski courses, to meet the increasing demand for spots where winter sports enthusiasts may be accommodated. This outlay, he declared, is returned many fold to the enterprising business men who sponsor ski courses, since they bring thousands of young people through the city who patronize restaurants, service stations and, in fact, practically all places of business.

Miss Therese O'Connor of French Corral, is spending the Christmas and New Year holidays in Sacramento with relatives. Her sister, Mrs. Madden left Thursday for a few days vacation in Sacramento and San Francisco over the holiday. Mrs. Madden is caring for four children who increase the attendance in the French Corral school and keep up attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon C. Hieronimus had as holiday guests, Mrs. D. Mattei of the bay district; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. McCluskey and son, Alleghany.

Congressman Harry Englebright, wife and son, Jackson Engebright, spent the Christmas holidays at their home on upper Broad street. Jackson will go to Washington, D. C., to attend university for the coming semester. He has done well in his studies in University of California. They will leave for the east today in order that Congressman Englebright may be present for the opening of congress early in January. He has been confined to his home for a week with a severe attack of cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wilson has as week end and Christmas day guests the following out of town relatives of Mrs. Wilson, Miss Margaret Smittcamp, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Beatty, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shurwood, of Fresno, and Halstead Downey, chief gunner's mate U. S. Navy at Vallejo.

Harold Young of Oakland spent Christmas with his mother, Mrs. Minnie Young, and other family members in Nevada City.
